WHAT IS THE TRUST?

The Snuneymuxw First Nation has pursued a settlement with Canada for the loss of a 79-acre Indian Reserve which was located along Stewart Avenue in Nanaimo across from Newcastle Island. The wrongful taking of the Indian Reserve happened in the 1880s and the Thlap'Qwum Specific Claim was first filed with Canada in 1992. Elders of the Snuneymuxw First Nation, the late Chester Thomas in particular, pressed the Snuneymuxw Government to address this loss. The Specific Claim was submitted by late Chief Robert Thomas. Canada accepted the Specific Claim as valid and offered to enter negotiations in 2003.

These negotiations resulted in the settlement offer made by Canada in the summer of 2014. The Settlement Offer amounts to a total settlement amount of $49,148,121. Since 2003, negotiation costs for legal counsel and for the negotiations team cost $1,155,655. This was added to the settlement amount. Therefore, the net settlement amount under the 2014 offer is $47,992,466. Snuneymuxw Chief and Council accepted this amount in 2017.
